Glenna Collette Defeats Mrs. W. A. Gavin in Final Round, By Score of Five and Four.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS,
W. Va., Sept. 80__Plan a past master at the game, Miss Glenna Collette, nineteen-yearold golf star of Providence, R. I., today added to her many other laurels by winning the national match, 5 and 4. Miss Collette completely outplayed her opponent in the highest American golfing honors. She outdrove Mrs. Gavin throughout, and in comparison with the English woman who at times completely lost control of her shots, the youthful American miss played a brilliant, steady game Miss Collette will visit England next spring to contest for the British championship. No American woman has yet won this event. The Providence miss is holder of the Rhode Island championship, the Florida championship, Eastern championship, and the North and South hampionship. Last year she won the Invitation tournament at Phila delphia, where she won from Miss Cecil Leitch, the greatest of British players.

Despite its defeat, 20 to 0, over Middlebury College, the Harvard team played a ragged, disappointing game. After the first period when George Owen scored two touchdowns and Captain Buell kicked one of the two goals, the work of the Crimson team began to fall off decided.y. What Will Bambino Do in Coming World's Series:

BABE RUTH.

"Will he be a hero or a bust?" That is the big question being asked by fans concerning the role Babe Ruth is to play in the coming World's Series. Last year Babe had to retire from the series because of a sore arm, and was of little help to his team, due to this handicap. This season, however, Babe is fit and sound. But few of the really great batsmen, from whom much was expected, have lived up to their reputations in a World's Series. Ty Cobb. for instance, and Tris Speaker ailed to show at their best in these games. Will Ruth live up to expectations, or, like Cobb and others, disappoint? Even Bambino can't tell, but you can bet your boots he will be in there trying.
